Antimicrobial Susceptibility

In addition to providing accurate susceptibility reports for guiding patient care, a major goal of this manual is to have laboratories from different hospitals, regions and nations follow exactly the same procedures and quality control practices.

Weak diamagnetic materials have magnetic susceptibility values close to zero; their molar magnetic susceptibility is of the order of 10^{-5} mol⁻¹. Diamagnetic susceptibility is a temperature independent quantity (Fig. 7.1). Some diamagnetic materials (water, benzene) are used to calibrate (check) the experimental equipment.

Susceptibility testing is performed by growing the pure bacterial isolate in the presence of varying concentrations of several antimicrobials and then examining the amount of growth to determine which antimicrobials at which concentrations inhibit the growth of the bacteria.

After analyzing susceptibility through reading volumes of old homeopathic magazines, Robert came to the conclusion that susceptibility is the expression of a void in the individual and it is due to an underlying constitutional weakness.

The review of the homeopathic concept of susceptibility

The molar susceptibility measured is a sum of the paramagnetic contribution from the unpaired electrons in the metal ion and the diamagnetic contributions from the ligands and the counter ions.

4-130 MAGNETIC SUSCEPTIBILITY OF THE ELEMENTS AND INORGANIC COMPOUNDS When a material is placed in a magnetic field H , a magnetization (magnetic moment per unit volume) M is induced in the material which is related to H by $M = \hat{\mu}^0 H$, where $\hat{\mu}^0$ is called the volume susceptibility. Since H and M have the same dimensions, $\hat{\mu}^0$ is dimensionless. A more useful parameter

The more susceptibility of Neelum variety was due to softness, seed thickness, seed size and coloration. Statistically, it was proved that consumption on Neelum variety due to both flour beetles have strong positive Pearson correlation with survival of flour

Varietal susceptibility on maize varieties against flour

Susceptibility data from a total of 5165 E. coli, 1103 S. aureus and 532 P. aeruginosa isolates were included. The concordance rates of the two guidelines for E. coli, S. aureus and P. aeruginosa ranged from 78.2 to 100 %, 94.6 to 100 % and 89.1 to 95.5 % respectively.
